The Buffalo Olmsted Parks are ...

“The Olmsted Park System is incredibly important to me and my family, and I believe it is one of the biggest assets our city has to offer.”

Sarah Cotter

Buffalo Olmsted Parks Conservancy PARKner

Kleinhans Music Hall is one of the Conservancy’s valued cultural partners. Its location – Symphony Circle – is one of the extraordinary landscaped circles Frederick Law Olmsted designed for Buffalo’s system of parks. Originally named The Circle by Olmsted and Vaux in 1868, it was later renamed Symphony Circle in 1958. The magnificent five-branch lamp that crowns the center island was installed during a restoration over a decade ago. Like Agassiz, Colonial, Ferry, Gates, McClellan, McKinley and Soldiers, Symphony Circle is entrusted to the Conservancy’s stewardship.
